

THE 10TH ANNUAL Globalization and Social Responsibility Conference:

Achieving the Dream? Contemporary Immigration Issues

FEBRUARY 26-27, 2010 | ST. OLAF COLLEGE

Immigration affects our jobs, our health care system, our economy, our schools, our politics, our global security - everything about the social fabric of our lives. Immigration and immigrants matter, yet most of us have had limited personal contact with immigrants or with “the system” that ushers them into this nation. The goal of the conference is to illuminate the complexity of the immigrant experience in the United States and the complexities of the immigration process. The conference starts with two award-winning social scientists as keynote speakers, and it includes panels of activists, student research, a service fair, art, and theater.

The conference program and further information is available at the conference website: www.stolaf.edu/events/globalization/